Heather McDonald, a senior advancement leader at Mount Holyoke College with more than 27 years of higher education experience—including 20 years in nonprofit management and fundraising—has been named vice president for advancement at Smith College.

McDonald, currently the associate vice president for development at Mount Holyoke College, was appointed following a national search that engaged trustees, faculty, and administrators. She begins on July 1. McDonald succeeds Beth Raffeld, in this position. Beth has served for nearly 13 years as VP, leading Smith to record-breaking fundraising results. We wish Beth the best in her well-earned retirement.
